

Filshill in Scotland chooses Skyfold to divide meeting room

Style installed two Skyfolds to create three small meeting rooms, have one large and one small room, or open up the whole area into a larger meeting space.

Skyfold is the highly innovative, vertically rising moveable wall discreetly housed in a ceiling cavity; out of sight and taking up no floor space when not in use.

Descending gracefully at the push of a button, this fully automatic moveable wall has an impressive 51dB acoustic rating ensuring meetings can take place undisturbed either side.

Thanks to the ease and speed by which the Skyfold can be lowered into position, the room configurations can be quickly changed depending on numbers during the day.

“The Skyfold moveable walls have made our flexible 3-2-1 meeting space a reality”, said Andrew Allison, business improvement manager at Filshill.

“In fact, as well as being highly effective at dividing space they add a bit of ‘wow-factor’ to the room, especially when they descend into position from the ceiling.”
